

Part-time Biology Teacher starting August 21, 2024
Two classes of 12 students each - .4 FTE) - 4 days per week/10 months per year

School One is a small college preparatory high school in Providence serving 100 students with a focus on creativity and the arts.

At School One, we teach students to think, write, analyze, and create. As a community, we treat each other with care and respect. We appreciate each other's differences as people and as learners. (Mission Statement)

Believing that students learn best when they feel safe, School One values collaboration over competition and creativity over rote memorization. Students and families receive detailed written teacher comments at the end of each trimester but our transcript does not record letter grades. Each student has an academic counselor with whom they meet regularly. The advisor also serves as the liaison between home and school. The majority of our students receive need-based financial aid. Informed by research about adolescent sleep patterns, our academic day begins at 9am.

Teaching Responsibilities include:

Teach two Biology classes per trimester with a maximum class size of 12.

- Communicate regularly and pro-actively with advisors, the Academic Support Coordinator, and the Counselor through notes and weekly forms.
- Craft timely and carefully-written evaluations and course descriptions.
- Ensure the safety of math/science classes, especially regarding chemical safety and appropriate lab procedures.
- Collaborate with the Department Chair as needed.

Salary range for two classes is $7-9,000.
